THE FIRST ROMANCE

By Mark Jurkovich

And the Lord God said, "It is not good that man should be alone; I will make him a helper comparable to him." Out of the ground the Lord God formed every beast of the field and every bird of the air, and brought them to Adam to see what he would call them. And whatever Adam called each living creature, that was its name. So Adam gave names to all cattle, to the birds of the air, and to every beast of the field. But for Adam there was not found a helper comparable to him. (Genesis 2:18-20, NKJV)

Genesis 2 documents the first romance. Understand the setting. God makes all the sea and flying animals on day 5, then all the land animals on day 6. Then he makes man. But God left something missing. What do you suppose Adam noticed as God sent him all the animals to name? The animals most likely came two by two, male and female. Adam saw all these magnificent creations of God, but also saw none were like him, while they all had another like them. This surely made Adam realize that he was incomplete; made him long for one like him.

And the Lord God caused a deep sleep to fall on Adam, and he slept; and He took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh in its place. Then the rib which the Lord God had taken from man He made into a woman, and He brought her to the man. (v.21-22)

Adam was finally ready for God's last creation of creation week. He could now fully appreciate what God had now prepared to give him.

And Adam said: "This is now bone of my bones and flesh of my flesh; She shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of Man." Therefore a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and they shall become one flesh. (v. 23-24)

I don't think you can be more closely fitted together than for one to be formed from the other. And Adam understood; Eve truly was flesh of his flesh. And to realize what it was first like to be without the other person made his love for her all the stronger.

This is the ideal God has designed to most closely reflect His own triune love, and reflect His love for mankind. If people do not know the message of God's love for them, or have rejected it, they

An Evening with Kevin Sorbo

By Elaine Zambon

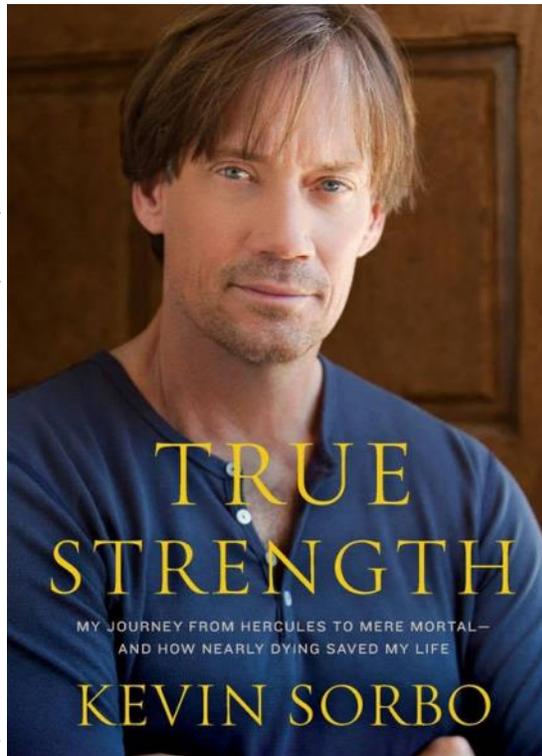

Popular TV & movie actor Kevin Sorbo was introduced at this year's Celebration of Life dinner as the spokesman for the nonprofit organization, "A World Fit for Kids" (<https://worldfitforkids.com/>). He first quoted former President Ronald Reagan: "Everyone who is against life has already been born."

The Supreme Court legalized abortion in 1973. This has resulted in over 70 million deaths. All of the lives lost in US wars and terrorist attacks are far less than the number lost to abortion. (you can see a video similar to the one Kevin showed at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ektNpsIOUPM>)

Kevin Sorbo is well-known as the actor who starred in Hercules: the Legendary Journeys, Kull the Conqueror, and God is Not Dead. After completing the fifth season of Hercules, he experienced severe, ongoing pain in his shoulder. A biopsy was done, but the results were inconclusive. After seeking chiropractic help, he experienced three strokes. Blood clots caused three years of vision and speech difficulties, as well as migraines, difficulty walking, and hearing problems. He doubted his ability to recover, wrestled with his doctors, and doubted God.

At the time, he was newly married to Sam, who met him on the set of Hercules. She stood by his side throughout his hospitalizations and recovery. Suddenly, the man who personified the son of Zeus, who had worked 12 to 14 hour days, could only work one to two hours per day. Sam encouraged him throughout this time. Their journey is documented in Kevin Sorbo's book True Strength: My Journey from Hercules to Mere Mortal and How Nearly Dying Saved My Life. (c 2011, Kevin Sorbo and Sam Sorbo)

Mr. Sorbo encouraged the audience in the fight to end abortion by relating the challenge faced by abolitionists before the Civil War. Slavery was an accepted institution at the time, and it seemed an impossible challenge to end it. However, a few persistent men, eventually led by President Abraham Lincoln, finally managed to stop the spread of slavery. Mr. Sorbo encouraged everyone not to give up, that we must persist in righting the great wrong of abortion.

Abortion not only destroys the life of an unborn child, it also devalues life. The past few decades have shown society's willingness to consider assisted suicide and euthanasia. Babies diagnosed in the womb with Down's Syndrome or other disorders are considered to be disposable. Many believe the elderly do not deserve medical care. Who makes these decisions? Who assigns value to life? Without God, life has little value, except as we assign it. If a life becomes inconvenient, it is all too easily ended.

Kevin then showed a video of a girl's life Baylee. But Baylee's life never happened because she was aborted. (here he interjected Psalm 139:13 "For you created my innermost being; you knit me together in my mother's womb.") This issue can break and destroy America. Dayton Right to Life is in the battle. Help transform the culture of death to a greater culture of life; a revival to protect life. Dayton RTL, what they provided has help lead to a 47% drop in abortion rate. But donations needed to continue the fight.

In summary, after three strokes, cranial stimulation and spiritual renewal, Kevin looked on all of this as a gift from God to improve him. Send God's gift back? Who does that? Let us help mothers also realize the child inside is a gift from God.

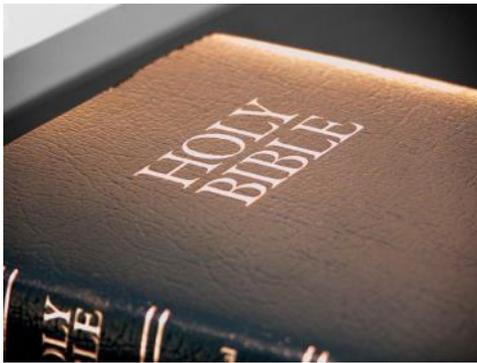

What type of book is the Bible?

By Mark Jurkovich

What kind of book is the Bible? Of course, most of you will immediately say, "It's the Word of God". But as the Word of God, the Bible is so rich in content, it can be classified in many different ways.

In the broadest classification, fiction or non-fiction, the Bible is clearly non-fiction. Although skeptics want you to believe that it is largely fiction and legend, the vast evidence presented by Creation Science organizations, Bible based institutions, and scholars through the ages show the skeptics to be flat wrong. A few examples will be presented later in this article.

In the next level down of classification, first and foremost, the Bible is a religious book; it teaches spiritual truths. But by claiming to be the very Word of God, the word of the creator of the universe, it should stand head and shoulders above every other religious book ever written. Does it? The answer is an emphatic YES! For example, there are far more ancient copies of the New Testament than any other writing of antiquity. That means we can be certain that what we have today was not corrupted over the centuries. Also, the oldest copies of the NT are so close in time to the original events, the astounding claims of Jesus' life and his resurrection could have easily been disputed by hostile eye witnesses if they had not been true.

Is it a history book? Yes, we can say it is also a history book.

Again, skeptics try to point out archaeological evidence that they claim discredits the Bible's historical accuracy. But time and again, these claims have been proven to be erroneous. Virtually every city and most historical figures mentioned in the New Testament have been validated by outside sources. And many of the historical figures claimed to be fictional in the Old Testament have also been verified by sources outside the Bible. Even king David was claimed to have been fictional by skeptics until extra Biblical evidence validated his place in history. Numerous times skeptics have pointed to some archaeological find and claim it contradicts Scripture. But time and again, as the evidence is better understood, or more found, it again lines up with the Bible.

Is it a science book? I do not think we can classify the bible as a science book. But while the Bible is not a science book, it does touch on subjects of scientific interest. And when it does, it reveals truth about that topic. My past series on Science and the Bible presents many examples of this truth. (<http://www.arky.org/newsltr/arkn1403.pdf> through <http://www.arky.org/newsltr/arkn1802.pdf>)

This next one might sound a little silly, but is it a user's manual? I have heard it described this way in the past, and in a sense, I agree. It is a user's manual replete with instructions on how we should live, how to know our creator, and how we can spend now and eternity with Him.

Now here is one that might make you think I've gone a little too far. But bear with me. Is the Bible a love story? I believe we can definitely say it is a love story. It is a true love story about the Creator God's love for his creation which spurned his love, not once but again and again. A true love story that shows our lover God going to the farthest extremes ever seen in all history to win back his rebellious beloved. And one day he will present his beloved to himself as a radiant bride.

BioLogos Debate: Common Ancestry?

By Kevin Hadsall

My debate on the BioLogos Facebook page kicked off via direct interaction with the official BioLogos Facebook page administrator, as shared in Part 1 of 7 of this blog post series called the "BioLogos Debate." Below is Part 5 of 7 of the BioLogos debate.

BioLogos: Kevin, Here are short answers to your questions. I would encourage you to join our discussion forums at discourse.biologos.org to interact with our community there.

1. It is impossible to know in advance what evidences you will accept or dismiss as "faulty", but scientists observe genetic "scars" in DNA that match up with striking precision with "scars" in chimpanzee DNA, strongly suggesting common ancestry. <http://biologos.org/blogs/guest/genetic-scars-compelling-evidence-for-human-evolution>

2. Nylonase. <http://biologos.org/blogs/dennis-venema-letters-to-the-duchess/intelligent-design-and-nylon-eating-bacteria>

Here's another cool example:

<https://www.theatlantic.com/science/archive/2016/09/stunning-videos-of-evolution-in-action/499136/>

3. We never "equate" nature with God's Word. Nature is God's handiwork, and science is a way to learn about it. And in those places where science can inform our interpretations of Scripture, it should! It has corrected faulty interpretations in the past (see: Galileo).

I apologize if my previous comment to you was taken as disrespectful. I thought your original comment was worded in a unnecessarily aggressive fashion and I was responding to that.

Kevin: BioLogos, Apology accepted. Indeed, I am not trying to be "aggressive," as I am only seeking respectful discussion and debate. Thank you for circling back and providing a response. I took note of the discussion forum, and thank you for the heads up on that. For now, I will continue the discussion on here. I will respond point-by-point, but using multiple replies, since Facebook won't let me post this all at once.

"1. It is impossible to know in advance what evidences you will accept or dismiss as 'faulty'..."

In regards to the topic of historical science, the debate is not really about the evidence itself, as it is with the topic of observational science. In historical science, you and I can observe the same exact circumstantial evidence: rock layers, fossils, DNA similarity, and so forth. We both have the same evidence, but we have different presuppositions, and those presuppositions lead to different interpretations of that evidence. Those differing interpretations lead to different conclusions about the past. In observational science, sometimes the evidence itself is called into question if the "evidence" is exaggerated, fabricated, or tampered with. These are the principles that I will employ while responding to your specific points.

"...but scientists observe genetic 'scars' in DNA that match up with striking precision with 'scars' in chimpanzee DNA, strongly suggesting common ancestry. [link]"

First, my original Question #1 dealt with the age of the universe, but that's okay, I will respond to the point that was presented. I do not see any cited sources for the original research that this article is referring to, so I am unable to dig in to the details. Therefore, I am unable to comment on the article's specific claims regarding DNA mutation "scars." Can you point me to the original research? For now, I will focus on the general argument that similarity in human and chimp DNA is proof of common ancestry. This argument commits the logical fallacy of Affirming the Consequent. The argument says this:

- a. If humans evolved from ape-like creatures, then we would expect to see similarity in human and chimp DNA.
- b. We do see similarities in human and chimp DNA.
- c. Therefore, humans evolved from ape-like creatures.

To say that this is proof of ape-to-human evolution is faulty logic because creation scientists would also expect to see DNA similarity between humans, apes, and other organisms, due to a common Creator/Designer. In this view, God chose to use many of the same proteins as building blocks. As Dr. Georgia Purdom (PhD, Molecular Genetics) points out: "Much of the similarity lies in the regions of the DNA that result in proteins (the genes). It seems logical that if a protein performs a certain function in one organism, and that function is necessary in other organisms, then the same protein would be utilized by multiple organisms. Just as paintings from the same painter look similar, so do the proteins (and thus, genes) from a variety of organisms designed by a common Designer" (<https://answersingenesis.org/human-evolution/are-humans-and-chimps-related/>).

As I mentioned before, in regards to historical science, the primary disagreement stems from differing worldviews. I admit that my presupposition is biblical creation. Do you confess that your presupposition is the evolutionary worldview? As for the observational science, there is some disagreement as to the actual percentage of DNA similarity. While many scientists often claim that humans and chimps share 96-98% similarity, other scientists make the case that it could be 80% or lower (<https://answersingenesis.org/genetics/fresh-look-human-chimp-dna-similarity/>).

There is so much more that I could have said to BioLogos to refute the supposed ape-to-human evolution, especially from a theological perspective. However, the specific purpose of my response was to teach BioLogos and their supporters the fact that their evolutionary beliefs are not based in observational science, but are based in faith. Since the evolutionary worldview (based in the religion of humanism) requires faith, and since the evidence can be used to confirm biblical creation, then why, as Christians, should we ever believe anything else other than the Bible?

I will share the second part of my response in my next blog post.

will seek love in other places. For God has planted that need for love and to be loved in each one of us. When sin entered the world, even this expression of love in marriage between one man and one woman was tainted, especially when one or both spouses do not first know the love of their creator and savior. But it is still the closest earthly expression of His love.

The pressure to seek love by other means is greater today than it has been for many years. While not condoning these counterfeit forms of love, we must seek to point those trapped in them back to the source of true love. We all need love, but without the savior, no one will ever be free from the bondage of counterfeit forms of love. Love them like Jesus.

Good VS Evil

Hey, kids, TJ here. Have you noticed all the new movies and games offered? Maybe some of you got something like that for a Christmas gift. You know, the Super Hero VS the Villain (Bad Guy), or the Video Cop against the Thugs, Speed Demons, Drug Dealers, Killers, Kidnappers, and the list goes on. Hey, kids, that's what young (and old) people watch on TV, movies, etc., all the time. This is seriously wrong! Beware, kids, of "The Takeover." Yep, The Takeover is lurking in your home, movie theatre, basement or other hangout place. The Takeover wants to...well... Takeover your mind! Sounds like a Sci-Fi thing, but it's for real!

So, protect your mind, because often, what we think, invades the spaces in our hearts (Space Invaders), and we can, if not careful, act it out. One suggestion: think on these things- Whatever...is true, noble, just,

Instantaneous Creation

BY HENRY M. MORRIS, PH.D.

"Let them praise the name of the LORD: for he commanded, and they were created." (Psalm 148:5)

The concept of "fiat creation" is opposed by evolutionists and all who believe in the so-called geologic ages. Nevertheless, this is clearly the teaching of the Word of God, and God was there! Psalm 148 exhorts all the stars to praise the Lord, and then notes that, as soon as God spoke, they "were created." Similarly, "by the word of the LORD were the heavens made; and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth. . . . For he spake, and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast" (Psalm 33:6, 9).

It is worth noting that whenever the verbs "create" and "make" are used in reference to God's work of creation, they are never in the present tense. God is not now creating or making stars or animals or people as theistic evolution requires; at the end of the six-day creation period, in fact, God "rested from all his work which God created and made" (Genesis 2:3).

This is the teaching of the New Testament also. "The worlds [that is, the space/time cosmos, the 'aeons'] were framed [not 'are being framed'] by the word of God [not 'by processes of stellar evolution'], so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear [not 'out of pre-existing materials,' as required by theories of chemical and cosmic evolution]" (Hebrews 11:3).

The Lord Jesus Christ Himself confirmed the doctrine of recent creation. "From the beginning of the creation [not, that is, four billion years after the solar system evolved] God made them [Adam and Eve] male and female" (Mark 10:6). Thus, those who believe in the geologic ages are rejecting both the biblical record and the authority of Jesus Christ in order to attain ephemeral acceptance by the ungodly. This is a poor exchange! Jan 14, 7:00 pm to 8:35 pm. DVD: "His Star" with Dr. Jason Lisle at ARKY's House. In recognition of Epiphany (Jan 6), the traditional observance of the visit by the magi, we will be viewing an astronomer's look at what the Christmas star might have been. What was the mysterious star that guided the magi to the young Christ in Bethlehem? Was it a supernova, a comet, a rare conjunction of the planets Venus & Jupiter? Or was it something else? How was this star able to move in such a way to identify the location of Jesus? Join astrophysicist Dr. Jason Lisle as we explore what the Bible says about this amazing event.

Feb 11, 7:00 pm to 8:35 pm. DVD: The Intelligent Design Movement with Dr Georgia Purdom at ARKY's House. How intelligent is it? Hot Topic! This movement has gained much popularity in both secular and Christian circles in recent years. The movement's history, philosophical and theological foundations, and approach to science are important to understanding its impact on Christianity. This reveals the history and unravels the good, the bad, and the ugly of this "new" idea regarding origins.

March 11, 7:00 pm to 8:35 pm. DVD: Are Miracles Scientific? with Dr. Jonathan Sarfati at ARKY's House. Can observational science verify when miracles occur? Learn how to think biblically and logically about miracles. Many attacks on miracles misunderstand what science can and can't do, or even resort to arguing in circles. Why should we trust biblical miracle accounts? This presentation also refutes chronological snobbery and pagan copycat ideas.

April 15, 7:00 pm to 8:35 pm. DVD: On the Wings of the Monarch with Narrator at ARKY's House. In March and April, the eggs are laid on the milkweed plants in North America. However, Monarch butterflies cannot survive cold weather, so they migrate in October or sooner to Mexico and Southern California. Monarch butterflies are the only insects that travel 2500 miles away from their birthplace. Learn more about Monarch butterflies in this beautifully filmed documentary.

Support The ARK Foundation While You Shop at Kroger!

Like most corporations, Kroger donates a portion of their proceeds to charity. If you shop at Kroger you can tell them where you would like some of that money to go. Go to <http://kroger.com/communityrewards> to sign up. To designate ARKY, search for The Ark Foundation Of Dayton, Inc, or type in IH352 (note this is a different number from what ARK used to have). Then whenever you shop there, a portion of your proceeds will benefit ARKY.
