Evolution Dilemma – Christian Opportunity

Ron Cooper

Survival of the fittest is just as likely the survival of the luckiest. It surely is not evolution. On the other hand, God created the designed Symbiosis phenomenon that is the most relevant and enduring biological theme found in the history of our planet (nature). Working together for mutual benefits is a far better and frequent happy event than tooth and claw.

Symbiosis is a good thing from God; It's not good for evolution; It shouldn't happen.

Symbiosis is 'close and often long term interaction between two or more different biological species'. It is associated with living together and at least one or all members benefit from the relationships.

From cleaner fish getting food from helping sharks clean their teeth; Or clownfish getting protection from the stinging cells of the sea anemone plant and getting food that would otherwise potentially harm the sea anemone and the clownfish attracting or providing nutrients to the sea anemone on the sea bottom; Each of these pale to the massive relationships that bacteria have with people (we can't live without them in our digestive tract); Some molds fix nitrogen for leguminous plants; GO-BIE fish and burrowing shrimps (many other fish have symbiosis relationships) protect each other; Leafcutter ants raise food using fungi that they protect, etc.

Even God's highest creation – Man – has a symbiosis relationship with our maker. As "God" has three parts - Father, Son, and Holy Ghost – we have three parts that correspond to His image – Soul, Body, and Spirit. The eternal parts connected with our soul are our Heart/Emotions and Mind.

Mark 12:30 "Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind and with all your strength."

If we live according to our Creator's plan, we get eternal life and help in living this life on earth. Symbiosis is God's teamwork for maximum effectiveness on earth for all of us. He wants us to succeed forever. All we got to do is love God and obey His commandments.

Or we can hate Him and love/hate ourselves as long as we live, then die without...! Evolution anyone?

Lies in the Textbooks Part 4: Do things really take long ages to form?

By Mark Jurkovich

Do the various layers in the rock strata really represent thousands and millions of years? Does coal and oil require thousands of years to form in the ground? Do stalactites, crystals, and the process of petrification all take a long time to form? Did the Grand Canyon take hundreds of thousands of years to be carved out? The answer to perhaps all of these needs to be “no” in order to fit within a Biblical time line. But what does evidence say? The answer is, more and more evidence is pointing Biblically consistent time lines.

We have already covered in previous articles some of the big subjects touted as proving long ages; namely radiometric dating,¹ the geologic column,² and the Grand Canyon.³ Each article showed that the evidence does not support long ages. Even astronomy has its own difficulties with long ages.⁴ This article will cover a few more normally presented as taking long ages.

Regarding coal, I quote here portions of a 2011 article by Dr. John Morris⁵. “For decades it has been taught that dead plants accumulate in the stagnant, oxygen-poor waters of a swamp, where they partially decay and eventually alter into combustible peat. Over time, the surrounding land may become submerged under the ocean, where other types of sediment can stack on top of the organic material, generating both heat and pressure, and driving off the water and gases, leaving mostly carbon.

Over vast ages under these conditions, the peat supposedly metamorphoses into coal.” The problem is, it does not happen that way. Peat that does accumulate in swamps “appears nothing like coal”.

In a 55 year old mine

On the other hand, there is strong evidence coal formed rapidly in the past, and has been formed in days and even shorter time periods in laboratory experiments. I quote further from Dr. Morris' article regarding evidence from Mt. St. Helens: “The blast uprooted millions of trees and washed them into nearby Spirit Lake, where they floated for years in an eerie mat of logs, moved around by incessant winds. As they moved, the bark abraded and sank to the bottom, where it collected as a thick layer of peat. In a matrix of volcanic ash and decaying leaves and wood, it took on a surprisingly layered appearance. This peat is not now becoming coal, but it has the required ingredients and geometry. If another volcanic event were to blanket the layer with hot ash, it might rapidly metamorphose into coal. All necessary conditions have been met.”

A second ‘long age’ process are those cave formations known as stalactites. But there is ample evidence of rapid formation of these features in man made structures⁶. Even in natural settings, stalactites have been shown to grow rapidly, given the right conditions. Research by creation scientists has demonstrated faster growth rates in studies that mimic natural cave environments than normally quoted in secular literature. They also tested conditions that are believed to mimic post flood conditions, and got even higher rates⁷.

Space does not allow me to cover others, but I reference articles on oil⁸, gas⁹ and even opals¹⁰ for your further enlightenment. So the next time you hear a claim that something took hundreds of thousands or millions of years to form, know that the real evidence says otherwise.

Benevolent Violence part 2 of 2 The Greatest Good

by Ronnie E. Cooper

In the first part of this article I reviewed the difficulty of relative truth or "good" from the vast number of "gods" available to us and by extension, "religions." I came to the conclusion only an absolute authority can be the judge and all others are imperfect substitutes. Part One finished with questions I will address now.

This God by the authority of creating everything and taking providential care about us could be the only One who can care. All others just fight over the pieces that reject the real God. Hope for me lies in that power and concern already shown? Our best reward is a daily walk with God forever. Our obligation exists only if we love Him, then we need to obey what we were designed to be. Looking for those answers requires the faith they exist.

Where are these answers? Governments all over the world are attempting to fulfill the role of God, not God's role for them. Government's role is to protect the God created rights of its people: their lives, their liberties, and their property.

Governments are ideally enablers, not a crutch nor a cause of the loss of those rights. They cannot add or subtract rights, only maintain those given by God. If they try, they replace God and are a religion or an idol.

Being like God is the original sin and since governments are run by men, they can and do fall to the same curse. Unlike individuals their judgment comes on earth. It is why few governments last more than 200 years. When we go back to the beginning of Sin, the concept of doing or being better is present. Today helping people has turned to making everyone the lowest common denominator (LCD), i.e., poor, dependent on government, reduced to indoctrination of pulling down others instead of educating in the principles of God and His Love.

When we go back to Genesis in the Bible and have a careful study of history, we know what the results of departing from God's way is - LCD thinking and actions. God has called us to a higher purpose as His highest creation. We are to prepare for being with Him forever. But it means spending the rest of our days with a good God fearing government, not a government who is their own God.

Let's start with a good God, who created a good world, but the greatest good is only obtained by following God's plan even when it hurts. God will punish evil people and governments. But we never have to accept evil. Evil must be fought by all means possible. Those means were prescribed in our Constitution based on Biblical principles. Paper does not defend itself, it only shows the potential kept or thrown away.

Benevolent violence is the power of the sword. It is also the power of the Spirit. And in the final days, it is the power of our eternal judge. There is no way back from hell. There are ways back while we still live and depend on the God who created us!

TRANSFORMATION

Do not conform any longer to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is—his good, pleasing and perfect will.

Membership Drive

Since our 1995 beginning, ARK has never had a real membership drive. It is time for a change. I have watched many groups come and go. I have studied their reported cost of 'solicitation' percentage (how much of what you give is used to get you to give) and it is reported that 25% is very good; some have as much as 90%. The very good are less than 10%. ARK is at zero percent. We accept your donation, your membership support, any good will you can give. We give information from a Biblical Creation Science and History perspective. This Biblical worldview is promoted by its internal, self consistent, obvious, in context, meanings. Hence 6 days is always 6 days, no exception. No one knowing the day nor the hour the end will come means no date setting. But seeing signs of fruit or seasonal changes or world turmoil is equally valid for knowing the end with come (no more fruit, the end of a season, or wars and rumors of wars).

Jesus said, "How can you believe in things that have not happened, if you believe not the things that have happened."

We are asking for you to proclaim the things that have happened and support those who do, especially since the creation. We are asking for continued financial support. We prefer to know who you are so we may have some relationship and further communication. So we ask for the same things the world does: name, address, phone, Email. We don't ask every week like some phone calls do. We don't expect large sums of money (but are very thankful when we get $100, $250, $500, $1000, etc. occasionally). We are asking for your continued involvement and perhaps purchase of literature for yourself or others.

ARK leadership have always helped those who could not afford important literature (Bible, special subject books, DVDs) and give some large distributions of material (The original "Origins of the Species" with a Christian preface, The 10 Commandments poster, Acts and Facts, our newsletter, our web site (over 800 web pages) and many more. We keep giving as we are able and we are only able if we have regular membership support.

On behalf of all who love creation ministry, we ask you to renew your support, or begin it at any level, now. Our goal has always been 400 active supporters at one time. Many join, but don't continue, so we need to recruit new supporters and NOW is that time.

Pray first; Access your time and talents (can you help us by: mowing yard, shoveling snow, doing repair projects, helping with meetings, etc.); Look at your resources to see if some we have could be used well within your family or church; Look at the potential of inviting an ARK speaker into your church; Finally, if your budget can support $25-$40 per year or a one-time donation of any amount, fill out a membership form found elsewhere in this newsletter, and send it to our PO Box 20069.

If you can help or would like more information, contact us in October. Don't forget to consider buying some of your gifts through ARK for the holidays. Members get discounts beyond any sale priced items, it's on all items!

Referred scientific article on DNA argues for irreducible complexity

Reprinted from The Christian Scientific Society
(fairly technical article)

Scott Minnich at U. Idaho sends this along:

This paper published online [this] summer is a true mind-blower showing the irreducible organizational complexity (author's description) of DNA analog and digital information, that genes are not arbitrarily positioned on the chromosome etc.

The paper by Muskhelishvili and Travers, titled "Integration of syntactic and semantic properties of the DNA code reveals chromosomes as thermodynamic machines converting energy into information", makes several very interesting points. First, the digital information of individual genes (semantics) is dependent on the the intergenic regions (as we know) which is like analog information (syntax). Both types of information are co-dependent and self-referential but you can't get syntax from semantics. As the authors state, "thus the holistic approach assumes self-referentiality (completeness of the contained information and full consistency of the the different codes) as an irreducible organizational complexity of the genetic regulation system of any cell". In short, the linear DNA sequence contains both types of information. Second, the paper links local DNA structure, to domains, to the overall chromosome configuration as a dynamic system keying off the metabolic signals of the cell. This implies that the position and organization of genes on the chromosome is not arbitrary—much like Karl Drica proposed years ago as we were obtaining the first bacterial genome sequences. In other words, DNA topology (due to supercoiling and histone-like protein binding), Transcription, and Metabolic energy (ATP levels influence DNA gyrase activity, which affects supercoiling, which affects transcription) are all keying off each other and thus there is an overall order to the positioning of anabolic and catabolic genes relative to the origin of replication. In short, I think this is a fascinating review looking at DNA organization and function which, in the authors words, are irreducibly complex.

The Roots of Thanksgiving

Reprinted from: Morris IV, H. 2012. "The Roots of Thanksgiving." Acts & Facts. 41 (11): 21.

Perhaps no other custom so clearly reveals this nation's original character as that of Thanksgiving Day. Other nations have adopted similar observances, but America was the first to nationally recognize its dependence on God with a special day set aside to thank Him for all His many blessings.

While the exact date of the first American Thanksgiving observance is debatable, there is no doubt this custom sprang from the shared Judeo-Christian heritage of those early pilgrims. From early Spanish expeditions in the late 1500s to the Popham Colony in Maine in 1607, each group publically declared their thanks to the God of the Bible. Twelve years later, settlers in Virginia declared a day of thanksgiving for their survival on the shores of this then uncharted land. And in 1623, Governor William Bradford of Plymouth Colony established the most famous of all such observances when a bountiful harvest prompted him to proclaim a special day to "render thanksgiving to ye Almighty God for all His blessings."¹

During the War of Independence from England, the U.S. Continental Congress set aside a day for thanksgiving and praise for the decisive victory at Saratoga in 1777, marking the first time that all American colonies took part in such an event on the same day. The following year at Valley Forge, George Washington declared a special day of thanksgiving upon receiving news that France would provide aid to our cause. And later, as the young nation's first president, he responded to a congressional petition by declaring Thursday, November 26, 1789, as the first Thanksgiving Day of the United States of America.

Many state and national days of thanksgivings have been proclaimed since that first Thanksgiving declaration. But it was the tireless crusade of Sarah Josepha Hale that finally led to the establishment of this beautiful observance as a national American holiday. Her moving letters so touched the heart of Abraham Lincoln that in 1863—in the midst of the horrors of the Civil War—he urged his countrymen to be mindful of their many blessings, that they are “the gracious gifts of the Most High God” who ought to be thanked “with one heart and one voice, by the whole American People.”²

Of course, giving thanks to God is certainly not an exclusive American convention—it was first commanded of Christian believers many thousands of years before. Paul wrote, “In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you” (1 Thesalonians 5:18). Notice that the charge was not to give thanks for everything—rather, we are to give thanks in everything. Good or bad, right or wrong, be thankful in everything! Our American forebears knew this well.

So in this season of Thanksgiving, ICR [Institute for Creation Research] invites all Christians to again take part in this beautiful tradition rooted in the biblical heritage of Scripture. ICR is thankful to God for all His many blessings upon our ministry and for His faithful supply through believers like you who support the work of our staff to advance the truth of creation. Above all, we are thankful for Christ, “who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God” (Hebrews 12:2). Now that is something to be truly thankful for!

THE ULTIMATE CHALLENGE

Hey, kids, TJ here! Have you ever wondered what the ultimate challenge might be for a young person? Would it be to scale the largest rock climbing wall? Maybe to run the longest race ever? How about flying in a hot air balloon around the world? Maybe you would like to be on the new Bible Challenge show? Well, whatever great challenge you can imagine in your mind, someone has probably already attempted to accomplish it. Some have been successful in doing so and some have not. Think about it, though. What could be the MOST IMPORTANT challenge that anyone could do? Out of all the daring, risk-taking, life-changing, courageous, even fearful steps a person could take to do the challenge that would push them to their limit; it is hard to believe that it is also the easiest, kindest, most carefree actions one could ever hope to accomplish. The ultimate challenge? Sharing one's faith with another. Telling your classmates and, yes, even your teachers and school staff about the love of Jesus Christ. The lunch lady needs to know...the librarian needs to know...your bus driver needs to know...the person who will spend about 36 weeks of the school year with you – your homeroom teacher – needs to know about Jesus. See, their life really depends on this knowledge! If you don't tell them, and the newspaper boy doesn't tell them, or the mail carrier doesn't tell them, or...heaven forbid...

Ultimate

their parents don't tell them that Jesus died on a cross to suffer for their sins so that they could inherit Heaven someday, and they come to the end of their lives without Christ in their hearts and souls, they will, according to the Scripture, perish into the most sorrowful place ever created by God. That place is known as Hell or Hades. It is a most terrible place, where you would not wish for anyone, even your worst enemy, to go.

So, the challenge is this: share Jesus Christ with everyone you know, not all at the same time, of course. Share by telling them what the Bible has to say about our sinful nature (Romans 3:23- "all have sinned"), and that they can be saved as easy as A-B-C: A= All have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God. (Romans 3:23) I am a sinner, so I need a Savior. (John 3:16) B=Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and you shall be saved. (Acts 16:31) If I am saved from my sins by Jesus then I will inherit heaven someday. C=Choose to put Jesus first in your heart and life. (John

1:12) Choosing Jesus means letting Him guide your life as a believer for the rest of your life.

So, kids, The Ultimate Challenge in life is being able to share your faith. Actually, it is more than just being able, since most every human being is able to share about something. It's actually doing it. It's talking with people, family, friends, classmates, etc., how important Jesus is to YOU! I hope He means EVERYTHING to you. He does to me. Until next time kiddies, TJ signing out.

ARKY's Calendar of Events (as of 10/3/13)

See more details and complete list at <http://www.arky.org/current/index.htm>

Oct 14: 7:00 pm until 8:35 pm. DVD: The High Tech Cell with Dr Robert Carter at ARKY's House. The human genome is anything but simple. In fact, it is a super complex computer operating system that far exceeds anything created by humans to date. New revelations about how it works have surprised us, and the complexity of the code is nothing short of astounding. The genome, perhaps more than anything else, defies naturalistic evolutionary theory.

Oct 24-25: 8:30 am until 5:00 pm. Christian Educators Association Convention with >100 programs at Century Center, 120 S St Joseph St, South Bend, IN. Ph: (574) 235-9711. Accredited teachers only. Program ends at noon on Friday.

Oct 25: 7:00 pm until 8:35 pm. Concert Tour with Keith & Kristyn Getty at Old North Church, 7105 Herbert Rd. "The church is huge. ...", Canfield, OH. Ph: (330) 533-6848. Writer of "In Christ Alone" and other modern hymns. Nashville couple revive lost art of hymn writing. Mother's Prayer Music Video Released!

Oct 27: 9:30 am until 7:30 pm. CMI Ministry Speaker, Dr. Robert Carter, at Bible Fellowship Church, 11906 W Fellowship Dr, Arlington, OH. Speaking 3 times: 9:30 am, 10:30 am, 6:30 pm.

Nov 11: 7:00 pm until 8:35 pm. Why America is losing its Christian Heritage with Bruce Malone at ARKY's House. Starting with the decline of Christianity in England (from 60% church attendance in 1940 to 3% today), this talk reveals what is at the heart of America's moral slide. This explosive presentation uses movie clips from 50 years of media conditioning, unforgettable demonstrations, and fast paced visuals to show how we are being trained to reject Biblical teaching. It also gives an overview from every area of science revealing how we can KNOW that God's Word can be trusted.

Dec 9: 7:00 pm until 8:35 pm. Answering Atheism: Defending the God of the Bible with Kyle Butt at ARKY's House. We will show 1/3 of this DVD. High profile atheists accuse God of being a brutal tyrant who enforces His petty whims by acts of violence. These spokesmen for goodness insist that the Bible writers condone immorality and approve of sexism and cruel human slavery. According to them, atheism offers a much better moral system than the Bible. This strips these groundless accusations of their misleading trappings, and lays bear the fact that God and His Word provide the only viable foundation upon which to build a moral system.

Jan 1: Happy New Year with Your Family at Where ever you are, Your Town, USA, .

Jan 13: 7:00 pm until 8:35 pm. Evolution Impossible with Vij Soderer & Phillip Bell at ARKY's House. This examines the origin of life, fossil formation, bird anatomy, human fossils, and more to demonstrate that the theory of evolution is a myth in this illustrated. English subtitles for this "English" film.

April 15: 7:00 pm until 8:35 pm. Patriots Day, Not Tax Day! with Speakers at ARKY's House? The Day we should celebrate (like Massachusetts) as "Patriots Day" when the Americans stood up to the British Empire (big government) and said "NO"!
